Most recently, she founded That Girl, which started as a T-shirt fashion line but soon evolved into a major force for good. It now focuses on celebrating and supporting the success of women from youth to adulthood while empowering them through fashion, media outlets and education. That Girl isn't merely words on a shirt: it's a lifestyle.

Natasha is an accomplished and inspiring speaker and regularly talks on a wide range of topics at educational establishments, business conferences and at non-profit organisations.

She is dedicated to giving back to her community and has developed a number of initiatives. These include an entrepreneurship training program for high school students to provide unparalleled business and personal support, and a program teaching the visually impaired in Michigan how to become self-employed whilst working from home.
